4. ASSUMPTIONS

4.1. Performance level in "Dimitrie Cantemir" Christian University

According to its mission, in the past years "Dimitrie Cantemir" Christian University has modernised the contents of education provided. The level of quality has been enhanced so that the university became competitive at national level. Having regard to the national strategy for higher education, starting with the academic year of 2005-2006 UCDC initiated complex efforts to ensure harmonisation and compatibility of educational provision, hence of degrees and diplomas granted to graduates with those granted by European universities.

The education and research processes were dynamic, innovative, and open to students' expectations and to the demands of the future.

New structures were created to cater for the activities: Excellence Research Centre enjoying institutional and national recognition, summer school in cooperation with the European Institute of High International Studies within the European Training Centre of Sophia Antipolis University of Nice, ECDL centre, specific components for the emerging "new economy": multimedia technologies, Internet, computer networks, campus. Significant investments were made in the development of physical resources, which were brought up to national standards, which ensure adequate conditions for the university activities. The endowments accumulated represent the main prerequisite of improving the study and working conditions for students, teaching staff and all other university employees.

Concisely, the reputation and fame of U.C.D.C. in the educational environment have been permanently enhanced.

4.2. National and international context of education development

Currently, the European Union is undergoing a transition from the industrial society to the knowledge and information society, promoting sustainable development.

Innovation has become the core of this process, and the logo launched by the European Union is "innovate or die". In other words, it won't be necessarily the survival of the fittest, but of the fastest in terms of anticipative innovative efficiency.

The main goal of the Lisbon 2000 Strategy was for Europe to become "the most competitive and dynamic knowledge-based economy in the world capable of sustainable economic growth with more and better jobs and greater social cohesion". The eEurope 2002 action plan proposed Member States, among others, investment in people and skills. The idea was continued in the updated versions eEurope 2002+ and eEurope 2005. These versions launched the aspiration that Europe should become a common home of living and prosperity built upon sustainable development, viable scientific knowledge and respect for people and the humankind.

The conference of the European ministers of education from Berlin (September 2003) reaffirmed the decision to achieve the objectives of the European Higher Education Area. The joint declaration adopted for 2003-2010 set several strategic objectives: quality assurance, by development of new national and European institutional mechanisms; to adopt a new structure of the study programmes according to the Bologna cycles: Bachelor, Master's and doctoral school; to promote mobility of students and academic and administrative staff.

The National Conference of Higher Education from Bucharest (November 2003) adopted several objectives among which: to achieve better correlation of the Romanian education system with the European education systems; to organise study programmes according to the three cycles (Bachelor studies with 180-240 ECTS, Master's studies with 60-120 ECTS, three-year doctoral programmes); to integrate ICT and education; to strengthen universities and develop regional consortia; to enhance quality of education and educational services; full-scale use of mobility programmes; to introduce a funding model based on academic quality; to promote excellence in scientific research.

In order for education and research to become dynamic triggers of economy and society, in general, there is a need for an institutional system which should bring together education-research-enterprise-market in a coherent and functional whole. The solution is to initiate various consortia and networks which are already operating in Europe. The globalisation is expected to encompass education as well, which will become borderless. There will be both cooperation and competition between universities, and "Dimitrie Cantemir" Christian University has carefully prepared to face these challenges.

5. STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES

The management team envisaged a number of strategic objectives at university level, while each faculty sets their operational objectives; the strategic objectives are as follows:

- To introduce professional and scientific competence – especially in the fields of educational sciences, political sciences, economics, law, history, international relationships and foreign languages – in the process of training specialists and in the development and management of public policies;
- To train all students according to European and international standards and to strengthen the U.C.D.C. position with regards to higher education provision and scientific research in the fields covered by the faculties within the university;
- To support openness to European and Euro-Atlantic integration, both in terms of educational standards and in terms of contacts and exchanges of students/teachers;
- To enhance the quality of the education process by introducing a quality evaluation system, revising the education-learning ratio, fostering continuing training of teaching staff by supporting domestic and international mobility for study and research, providing pedagogical training and other types of training;
- To foster student motivation and to meet their aspirations, to ensure the satisfaction of being European students, with international opportunities, to ensure better and better life and study conditions, to encourage participation in international programmes etc.
- To foster graduate employability in the European labour market, by continuing improvement of education and scientific research processes, in compliance with the European and international requirements and according to the social and economic reality;
- To develop and diversify quality university services, at affordable costs, to adapt to the specificity of the information society, to modernize education, continuing training courses, Master's programmes, to diversify the types of students so that they cover all categories of citizens;
- To constantly improve the education process and to develop scientific research in the fields of economics, law, public administration and social sciences, in permanent cooperation with similar institutions in Romania and abroad;
- To strengthen relationships with the national and international external environment, to strengthen cooperation with universities in Romania and abroad, with research institutions and high schools, to achieve real integration of U.C.D.C. in the European Higher Education Area, to promote open "borders" with bi-directional flows of contents, expertise and people, to encourage active participation of teachers in the education processes of universities abroad;

- To advance towards a European system of higher education awards and certificates, a system that meets the compatibility requirements at European level;
- To improve scientific research undertaken within U.C.D.C. so that it matches the potential of the institution;
- To ensure the best conditions for undertaking education, research and social activities for all students and employees of U.C.D.C., the proper management of physical and financial resources, the integration of ICT in the education processes and the university management, to attract the necessary financial resources to implement this institutional strategic programme, with a view to creating an academic environment conducive to a professional approach in tackling real problems of the economic, social and political life of the European area Romania is part of.

In order to achieve these objectives the training process should be modernised, first and foremost by developing modern education plans, compatible with those of renowned universities in Romania and abroad, with stable structure and dynamic contents. Besides the specialised scientific knowledge in the fields of IT, mathematics, foreign languages, they will include general knowledge related to communication, philosophy, psychology, pedagogy, sociology, ethics, history, geography, ecology, arts, sports, etc. It is necessary to adopt a higher education structure that is compliant with the requirements of the European Union and of the Romanian tradition.

The outcomes so far speak for the adequacy of the strategic objectives set by UCDC. This conclusion is best supported by the quality of our alumni's training, by the appreciation they enjoy in the labour market and, of course, by the positions they currently hold in various public institutions, in the economy or in other fields.
